MEMORANDUM FOR: THE DIRECTOR

Transcripts of General Carroll's and General Blake's testimony were not taken or are being held by the committee. Attached is a memorandum of the substance of their testimony as given me by their respective Comptrollers, [redacted] and [redacted] who were present. The two evident themes are concern about the size, lack of coordination, and duplication in the intelligence community, and evident confusion and misunderstanding about intelligence terms, functions, and how the coordination process works. There is obviously a crying need for some thorough briefing on the fundamentals of the intelligence function. I recommend that you take an early opportunity to discuss this with Senator Russell and Senator
